FOREIGN STUDY OPPORTUNITIES

291 The History Department of YOUNGSTOWN STATE UNIVERSITY is sponsoring a trip to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe during Summer 1974. The tour will be led by Professor George Kluchycky and will give 9 hours credit. Information can be obtained by contacting Professor Kluchycky, Department of History, Youngstown State University, Youngstown, Ohio 44503 (216-746-1851).

292 A research seminar, "Polish Perspectives of the Major Issues of International Relations", sponsored by the UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH will be held 4 May to 28 June 1974 in Warsaw. The program is open to faculty members and advanced graduate students. The seminar is funded by the U. S. Office of Education and is directed by Professor Zdenek Suda of the University of Pittsburgh for the American side. Lectures will be given in English but a knowledge of Polish is desirable. All participants must be US citizens. Application deadline is 15 March 1974.

Applications and further information can be obtained from: University Center for International Studies, 6-7 Mervis Hall, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15213.

FOREIGN STUDY OPPORTUNITIES (CONTD.)

293 A summer course for teachers and graduate students of Slavic languages and literatures, especially Polish, will be held at the UNIVERSITY OF WARSAW 26 August to 24 September 1974. The course is designed to help the participants improve their knowledge of Polish and to acquaint them with the most important aspects of Polish language, literature and culture. Lectures will be given in Polish by members of the faculty of the University of Warsaw and other Polish universities. The course will be held in Warsaw with a one-week visit to Cracow. Cost will be $160 plus transportation to Poland. Contact Professor Maria Kuberzyk, 11920 Fitzwater Road, Cleveland, Ohio 44141 (216-526-5445).

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITY

294 Research Fellowship at the Institute on East-Central Europe, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY. Purpose: To provide one or two young Ph.D.'s with a modest opportunity for completing a research project. The candidate must be now teaching at a college or university which has inadequate resources for continued research on East Central Europe. Eligibility: The competition is open to full time members of the instructional staff of any United States college or university. The candidate must have received the doctoral degree in or after June 1968 and have a research project well under way. Each candidate must submit a brief project outline indicating the status of the research and the reason for continuing this research in the New York City area. The candidate must also submit a curriculum vitae, together with two letters of recommendation. The projects will be judged by a selection committee appointed from among the members of the Institute on East Central Europe. The competition is open to those in the social sciences (i.e., history, political science, literature, economics, Slavic civilizations, sociology, law). Terms: The appointment will be for one semester, and will carry a stipend of $5,000. The research fellow will be provided with an office or a library cubicle, limited secretarial assistance, and library privileges. He (She) will be invited to participate occasionally in courses closely related to the subject of his (her) research. The Institute on East Central Europe will enjoy first option for the publication of a completed work in its "East Central European Studies" Series.

Applications should be sent to: Professor Istvan Deak, Director
Institute on East Central Europe
Columbia University
420 West 118th Street
New York, NY 10027

The deadline for applications is May 1, 1974.

DEVELOPMENTS OF NOTE

295 KENT STATE UNIVERSITY and the University of Warsaw have established a joint program of educational, scientific and cultural collaboration. The program, as set forth in a document signed recently in Warsaw sets forth the areas of co-operation. Further details can be obtained from Professor Raga S. Elim, Director for International and Comparative Programs, Kent State University, Kent, Ohio.

296 THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA has a Center for Immigration Studies and Immigrant Archives. The purpose of the Center and Archives is to encourage research into the migration of people from Eastern and Central Europe to the Americas, especially the United States. Further information about the center and its program can be obtained by writing to the Director, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.
